

Rejecting Reality

...The many crises and deadly dangers of the closing years of this second millennium after Christ can only grow worse if we do not recognize their basic cause. I believe we can show that this is nothing less than the long-continued rebellion of men and women against God.

The denial of God—rejecting the reality of supernatural creation and the Creator’s sovereign rule of the world—has always been the root cause of every human problem. This evolutionary, humanistic, pantheistic—even atheistic—world view has taken many different forms over the ages, varying with the time and culture, but it has always been there in one guise or another, to turn the minds and hearts of people away from their Maker. There has indeed been an age-long war against God. It has been going on from the beginning of time and will increase in intensity in these last days.

(Henry M. Morris, The Long War Against God: The History and Impact of the Creation/Evolution Conflict, Grand Rapids, Michigan: Baker Book House, 1990 [1989], 15; Excerpt from Introduction)